

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

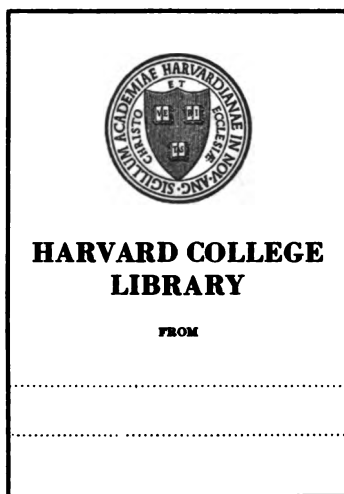

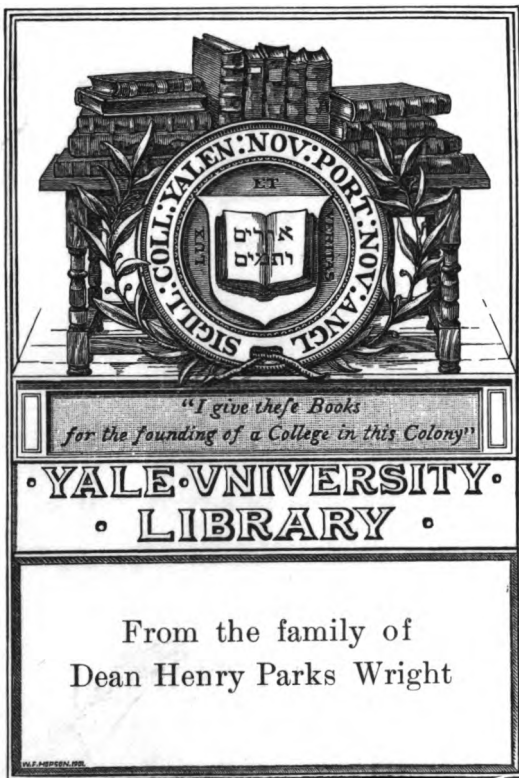

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. PREFACE

The Secretary, in presenting this Decennial Record, regrets its many shortcomings, but would remind the Class that his only source of information is the Class itself. He therefore respectfully urges the members of the Class to call his attention to its mistakes and omissions, and he will also be grateful for additional information and changes in address that may occur from time to time, as he is anxious to keep the records as complete as possible.

OUR CLASS BOY

JOHN BARCLAY ROSE, our Class Boy, is the son of John Bailey Rose and Maude M. (Barclay) Rose, and was born September 21, 1899, at Newburgh, N. Y. His father assures us that he is actively engaged in his preparation for the Yale entrance examinations, and the Class will watch his future career with a great deal of interest. His picture on the opposite page shows him as he appeared at the Decennial Reunion, and '97 S hopes to see him, as the years go by, at each and every reunion of the Class.

CLASS BOY

JOHN WALTON BEST

DECEASED MEMBERS

CHARLES RUSSELL BEMENT,

Son of George W. Bement and Helen F. (Brotherson) Bement, was born April 16, 1875, at Terre Haute, Ind., and prepared for college at Andover.

College career—Book and Snake; Captain Freshman Baseball Team, member Freshman Football Team, Vice President University Baseball Association in Senior year.

After career—Upon graduation he went into the grocery business with his father. On June 12, 1901, while returning home on horseback from a ride in the country, his horse shied at a passing trolley car and sprang in front of another car which knocked the horse down. Bement was thrown under the horse and was so crushed that he died without regaining consciousness.

Family—He was unmarried.

JOHN WALTER BEST,

Son of John Best (New York College '62) and Margaret (King) Best, was born at Central City, Col., April 13, 1875. He prepared for college at the East Denver High School.

College career—Berzelius; prize in Chemistry Freshman year, honorable mention for general excellence Freshman year, Chairman Yale Scientific Monthly Senior year, President of the Class Senior year, Vice President Berkeley Association Senior year, and Chairman of Dance Committee. He graduated with the four class votes of the "most popular," "most likely to succeed," "most versatile," and "most to be admired."

After career—After graduation he returned to Colorado and for about two years was associated with his father in the management of the Saratoga Mine at Central City. Subsequent to this he was for some time engaged in general sampling and examination work in Stratton's Independence Mine at Cripple Creek, and later in the Smuggler Union Mine at Telluride.

Early in 1900 he took a position with the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company, and as a member of its Geological Department made extended trips into New Mexico and the Bad Lands of Arizona. The result of the hardships and exposure which he endured on these expeditions was a serious attack of typhoid fever in the autumn of that year. In the following summer, after he had become Assistant Geologist of the Fuel Company, he examined various properties in British Columbia. In October, 1903, he was again stricken with typhoid fever, and although he recovered sufficiently to go to Florida in February, the change of climate failed to benefit him. In the middle of May he returned to Denver, and from that time on his decline was gradual, but steady. He died Saturday, August 20, 1904, at his home, No. 1054 Emerson Street, Denver, Col. During the two years and a half preceding his death, he was connected with the Northern Coal and Coke Company, first as its Treasurer and later as its Treasurer and General Manager.

"He had a singularly magnetic personality. Combined with his genuine and ever alert interest in men and things of all sorts, in books and outside of them, were a quick sympathy and unusual tactfulness that enabled him to meet at once individual people on congenial ground. In his presence one was unconsciously compelled to give expression to one's best self. The habit of hard, persistent work, so apparent in his college days, was characteristic of him all his life. He enjoyed work for its own sake as well as for its results and at the same time he knew how to mingle with it his pleasures. His friends were many and loyal because of his unfailing consideration for the feelings of those about him, his unselfish readiness to do them a kindness, and his cheery good humor; but most of all because companionship with him was more than a mere pleasure; it was a constant stimulus and source of encouragement."

Family—April 16, 1902, he married Miss Florence Kountze, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Kountze of Denver, Col.

ROBERT JEFFREY GRANT,

Son of Alexander Grant and Mary (Jeffrey) Grant, was born February 18, 1875, at Syracuse, N. Y. He prepared for college at Andover.

ROBERT JEFFREY GRANT

College career—Book and Snake; member of Class Cup Committee.

After career—After graduation he entered the hardware business, becoming Secretary and Treasurer of Alexander Grant's Sons of Syracuse. On Wednesday evening, June 19, 1907, he was taken ill, and on Thursday morning was taken to the Hospital of the Good Shepherd in Syracuse with a severe case of pneumonia, which proved fatal. He died on the afternoon of Saturday, June 22, 1907.

Family—He was unmarried.

AUGUSTUS FLOYD IRELAND,

Son of John B. Ireland and Adelia Duane (Pell) Ireland, was born April 7, 1874, in New York City. He prepared for college at St. Paul's School.

He left our class in Freshman year, after he engaged in the real estate and insurance business in New York, being in the employ of McVicker & Company until January 21, 1902. He then formed a partnership with Charles E. Kneeland and opened an office at 31 Nassau Street, under the firm name of Kneeland, Ireland & Company. He died March 14, 1906.

Family—He was unmarried.

JACOB ADOLPH KOENIG,

Son of Adolph Koenig, an advocate, and Rachel (Breiterman) Koenig, was born at Belaja-Zerkow, in the State of Kiev, Russia, on December 14, 1876. He was prepared for the Sheffield Scientific School in New Haven, and while there took the Engineering Course.

After career—After graduation he was for some time in the employ of the Bemis Bag Company of St. Louis, Mo., but from there went to the Philippine Islands, where he was first Clerk of the Court of First Instance, in the district of Zamboanga, but after a few months became a teacher at Bambam. In July, 1902, he was attacked with typhoid fever, from which he partially recovered, but two months later he suffered a relapse, and died on September 29, at the age of twenty-five years. He was buried in Zamboanga. An uncle graduated as a physician from Columbia University in 1887.

Family—He was unmarried.

BARCLAY WARD KOUNTZE,

Son of Luther and Annie Parsons (Ward) Kountze, was born on February 27, 1876, in Paris, France, and was fitted for college at St. Paul's School, Concord, N. H.

College career—Berzelius; member of Senior Dance Committee.

After career—After graduation he went into the banking business with his father in New York City, and was soon afterward admitted to the firm of Kountze Brothers. Owing to overwork his health failed and he was planning a long rest, but was taken down with typhoid, fever and pneumonia, of which he died three weeks later, at the summer home of his parents in Morristown, N. J., on August 29, 1901, in his twenty-sixth year. A brother graduated from the Academical Department in 1889.

Family—He was unmarried.

FRANK COLTON SHIPMAN,

Son of Henry D. Shipman and Emma E. (Colton) Shipman, was born July 29, 1875, at Ansonia, Conn. He prepared for college at the Wallingford High School, Wallingford, Conn.

College career—He received an appointment at graduation.

After career—After graduation he practiced his profession of civil engineer, for two years being located in the West with the Chicago, Burlington, and Quincy Railroad, with headquarters at Alliance, Neb. He then entered the office of the Pennsylvania Railroad at Altoona, Pa., and on March 15, 1906, was promoted to the office of Supervisor of Road Construction on the Buffalo and Allegheny Division. On April 2d, following, his wrecking crew was ordered out to clear a wreck, he going with them on the engine. The engine and tender jumped the track, and he was crushed to death, together with one other man, at Rockland, Venango County, Pa. The interment was in Meriden, Conn. He had been successful in his business from the beginning, having accomplished in a few years what would have taken many others much longer to attain.

Family—He was unmarried.

GEORGE ROBINSON TRACY,

Son of David Dwight and Catherine Mary Tracy, was born on October 6, 1873, in Norwich, Conn., and entered the Scientific School from Bulkeley School, New London, Conn.

After career—Upon his graduation he entered the employ of the Eastman Kodak Company of Rochester, N. Y. While conducting an experiment in film making in the department of which he was Superintendent he was instantly killed by an explosion of chemicals, on June 1, 1900. He was in his twenty-seventh year.

Family—He was unmarried.

WINSOR PITCHER FRENCH

Died suddenly at one o'clock in the morning of January 24, 1908, at his residence, 21 Marion Place, Saratoga Springs, N. Y. He had been in ill health for some months and had only recently returned from a trip through the south, where he had hoped to regain his health. The immediate cause of his death was meningitis. The funeral was held on Sunday afternoon, January 26, the interment taking place in Green Ridge Cemetery, Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

[As the part of the Record containing French's biography had gone to press before the news of his death was received, it seemed best to insert his obituary on this page as printed above.

THE TRIENNIAL

In June, 1900, we returned, for our Triennial, one hundred and eleven strong, and, thanks to the committee, we had a fine reunion.

The boys began to drop into New Haven the Saturday before Commencement, and by Monday we had a good sized delegation. We went out to Morris Cove that afternoon, sailed over to Savin Rock, and had a dinner and a "game" there in the evening, later adjourning to the Campus, where, with '97, we had a bonfire and made things interesting for the "Prom." girls.

Tuesday morning we had our Class meeting. Our Triennial Committee, composed of Barnes, Beers, and Bennett, were given a hearty vote of thanks and unanimously reëlected as the Sexennial Committee. It was voted that we hold no regular reunion at the Bicentennial. After the Secretary's report, the meeting adjourned.

Before starting for the ball game in the afternoon we had our pictures taken, on the steps of the Tontine Hotel, and then, headed by our band, we gave the New Haven girls a chance to again see '97 S together, arrayed in white sailor costumes.

It is needless here to state that our dancing on the field and cheering for the team were of a nature to surprise the oldest living graduate, but we did not have the good fortune to see Yale do up fair Harvard, as she is accustomed to do.

After the game, we went around and cheered our old "profs," who told us that we were the "only class, etc.," which, of course, we knew. Then we adjourned to Harmonie Hall for the Class supper, which was all that it should have been. Bob Grant of the Cup Committee gracefully presented the Class Cup to Jack Rose, for the Class Boy, John Barclay Rose, whose extreme youth prevented his being present. We were told, however, that he was worthy of the honor. The meeting broke up somewhere about ten with an illuminated parade and fireworks on the Campus.

The following men were present at Triennial:

Aimes	Gallup	Peck, H. W.
Alexander	Gillespie	Peck, L. F.
Ashley	Griffith	Pratt
Barnes, N. L.	Grippin	Purinton
Bartlett	Goodbody	Rich

THE BICENTENNIAL

As the Class voted at the Triennial not to hold a reunion at this time, there was no formal meeting of the Class, although the following '97 S men were in town for the great celebration:

Aimes	Ely	Neithercut
Ashley	Farnham	North, F. S.
Barnes, A. F.	Farnsworth	North, J. S.

THE SEXENNIAL

The success of the Triennial reunion was repeated in the Class's Sexennial celebration held in June, 1903, when sixty-four men came back. A number were in town by Monday, and had a "game" at Savin Rock that evening. Tuesday morning a large number of the Class attended the general alumni meeting in Alumni Hall.

The business meeting of the Class was held in 31 North Sheffield Hall at 11:30 A. M. A vote of thanks to the Sexennial Committee, Amos F. Barnes (Chairman), Winchester Bennett and Clifford W. Beers, was passed, and they were reelected to serve as Decennial Committee, with the addition of W. K. Shepard. Reports were read and a few minor details of business transacted. Mention should be made of a telegram sent to Professor A. Guyot Cameron, now of Princeton, but formerly of Sheff., and voted the most popular professor by this Class. The telegram read:

Ninety-Seven S, assembled for Sexennial, sends greetings, and regrets you are not with us.

(Signed) AMOS F. BARNES, Chairman.

A telegram of appreciation and good wishes was received in reply at the Class supper. It was received with great cheers. The Secretary was also instructed to send to Professor Cameron resolutions of good wishes in suitable form.

The Class uniform was a very picturesque one, consisting of white duck suits with blue coat collars, blue buttons and blue pocket-flaps. The hats were of soft white duck, with two crossed Yale flags in front, and "'97 S" in the center. The picture of the Class was taken on the steps of North Sheff. after the business meeting, and the men then went to the headquarters of the Class at the Tontine Hotel, where the Class Boy, John Barclay Rose, acted as host and passed the Class Cup about.

The American Band of Waterbury led the Class out to the Field to see the Harvard game, where the usual "stunts" were carried out. After the game, the men called on President

Hadley, Director Chittenden and Professor Brewer, and in each case were rewarded with a welcoming and congratulatory speech by the recipients of their cheers.

The Class supper was held at Turn Halle on Court street, and lasted until about ten o'clock. Then the men marched over to the Campus and joined the other reunion classes in celebrating with Roman candles, red and blue fire and sky rockets. The reunion was a great success.

The following were present :

Aimes	Heaton	Porter
Alexander	Hitchcock, J. L.	Purinton
Barnes, A. F.	Hoyt	Rich

THE DECENNIAL REUNION

That the year 1906-7 has taken rank in history as an earthquake year is an admitted fact. Though the effect of the earth's restlessness has been evident to all, the cause, despite investigation by recognized scientists, remained a mystery until Yale's Two Hundred and Sixth Commencement was well under way. Then it was that a body of unrecognized—almost unrecognizable, becostumed scientists, graduates of the Sheffield Scientific School, of the Class of '97, in Decennial conclave assembled, cast, as bait, bits of superior gray-matter into the muddy waters of pure reason and drew forth a solution, if not the solution of the baffling problem.

Why should the Earth tremble? Indeed, why should it not tremble, while staggering masses of intellect, upon which Yale had put the stamp of her inspiring approval, gravitated toward the University confines? The preliminary quakes which shook cities to destruction served only to jar the minds of Yale men into an enthusiastic harmony which made it delightfully easy for the returning classes to give evidence of loyalty to their Alma Mater. These earth-shiftings served also another purpose. They were as the propping-up of a grandstand in anticipation of an unusual load. It was necessary, of course, that a supporting force should be mysteriously exerted, if that sacred portion of the earth's surface, underlying the "Yale Zone" at New Haven, were to remain undisturbed, while a mighty pile of intellect, not to mention timber—of the presidential and bonfire variety—should be assembled within a small radius.

With becoming but not necessarily natural modesty, the Class of '97 S shares with all other reunion classes its earthquake glory; but part of its glory—the glory of its raiment—it refuses to share with any other Class, past or present. In this seemingly selfish monopoly '97 S is justified; for with characteristic audacity it disregarded precedent, cast aside that over-worked color, Yale blue, and bedecked itself in raiment as proper as it was pleasing.

With the thought in mind that a costume cut along the lines of sense and sensation should, if possible, be evolved for the Class, fashion plates of a century ago were consulted. The search resulted in the selection of a gentleman's costume of the period of 1812. It consisted of a long-tailed, mouse-colored coat with blue velvet collar and cuffs, and brass buttons, appropriately placed; a white stock, and a straight brimmed high hat of gray velveteen; a cane to protect the hat; a multi-colored waistcoat of kaleidoscopic design, a veritable "front"—its back consisting of nothing but an elastic band which played an accommodating tune throughout two days of joyous stress and strain;—and, to complete the beatific vision, let the imaginative reader conjure up the peg-top trousers of light blue which effectually hid from a gaping public, legs ranging from mere props of the attenuated sort to legs elephantine. In selecting a more artistic costume than had hitherto been worn by any class on a like occasion, '97 S blazed an artistic trail which, if followed by future Decennial, Sexennial and Triennial committees, may tend to convert an amusing spectacle of varying excellence into an amusing and edifying pageant.

More than half of the Class returned for the Decennial,—over ninety men (not forgetting the Class Boy, who, with distinction, played the part of a man) being in line in the Reunion Day Parade. Sixty members of the Class attended the business meeting held in North Sheffield Hall on Monday, June 24th. At that meeting the following men were elected as officers and committeemen: Hopewell L. Rogers, president; John B. Rose, vice president; G. Barrett Rich, Jr., secretary; Ross Hickok and G. Barrett Rich, Jr., committee on resolutions; Winchester Bennett, W. Kent Shepard, Amos F. Barnes, Clifford W. Beers and John B. Rose, quindecennial committee.

The '97 S "Long Distance Cup" was awarded to Gaston H. Edwards, who traveled from Panama to New Haven (via the Horn) to attend the Reunion. It was voted that the Class send a "long-cheer," by wire, to Professor A. Guyot Cameron. The message was worded as follows: Ninety-Seven "Sheff" sends you its best wishes and a Decennial long-cheer. Each Reunion only serves to prove the depth and permanence of the impress made upon the Class by your inspiring personality.

Someone at the business meeting permitted his mind to wander afield—or shore-ward, and as a result of a suggestion made by him, the Class decided to go to Savin Rock for dinner, etc. (Emphasis on “etc.”) Assembling at sunset at the Tontine Hotel (Class Headquarters), a car-load of '97 S men started for the shore. There, at the Colonnade, a dinner consisting for the most part of sea-food was served. It was a delight to the eye of those living near the coast to see “land-lubbing” classmates from the fresh-water States make way with the clam and lobster combinations. Though it would be unfair to all concerned, to say that the land-lubbers ate lobster with cannibalistic zest, it is safe to venture the remark that they ate sea-food with such evident pleasure that a sea-weed salad would have been accepted and swallowed as an epicurean triumph. After dinner, a member of the Class, possessed of “infloence,” went to the “White City” and borrowed the Second Regiment Band. With tinkling cymbals and tooting horns at its head, the Class indulged in a military drill and then stormed the “White City” where a lively evening soon lost itself in the midnight hour. Before that hour arrived, however, the memories of all had been enriched, if multiplicity of impressions amounts to enrichment.

First, for a price, the sacred precincts of a “Palace of Magic” were thrown open to the seers and wise-men of '97 S. An Indian fakir exhibited illusions which, to a less imaginative audience, would have been baffling. Naturally, having solved the earthquake mystery, to puncture bubbles from India was easy. At this juncture, thirst, the mother of discovery, led the Class to “The German Garden,” where, with humming bird-like skill, the flock found and sipped nectar to their taste. This aesthetic oasis, once discovered, became rather popular, and deservedly so, for reunionists should have what they need, or—safer statement—think they want. Soon, other attractions within the confines of the “White City” shared in the pervading perfume of “The German Garden.” The fellows, of course, “Slid the Slide,” “Shot the Shutes” and “Bumped the Bumps,”—and they did it with a graceful abandon, all the more interesting because of the contrast afforded by their antics and the quiet dignity of the Class costume. To observe the shades of 1812 on roller skates was an animated anachronism worth going far to see.

The White City "game" was brought to a fitting close. After a troupe of professional cake-walkers had played its appointed part, the Class, en masse, stormed the stage and negotiated a cakewalk, invented in one of those inspired moments which crowd the happy hours of comradeship. This "stunt" consummated, decorous riot gave way to a very proper enthusiasm. The Class then wended its way to Miller's, where the dignity of age, and the restraining influence of a gentleman's costume, helped all to acquit themselves with more than less credit.

Somewhere near midnight, nearly all of the original car-load of ten-year-olds returned to town on the same car. Just such friendly banding together continued throughout the Reunion. Not only were friendships renewed, and cemented, but fellows, slightly acquainted while undergraduates, became good friends in the grasping of a hand,—or the clinking of glasses—or both.

There is little to tell about the Reunion Day Parade. Suffice it to say that '97 S made a dent in the memories—if not the hearts, of spectators at the Field. After the game was over, the Class marched to town, headed by Drum Corps and Band, one or the other of which played every step of the way. Then the professorial circuit was traveled, and '97 S paid its vociferous respects to ex-President Dwight, President Hadley, Director Chittenden, and Professors Brush, Brewer, Lounsbury, Farnam and Hastings. After paying ceremonious homage to these disseminators of knowledge, the Class marched to Music Hall on Court Street, where a flow of joy and a feast of reason had been prepared.

The banquet over, the Class adjourned to the Campus, where irrepressible classmates indulged, without fear of criticism, in the intellectual pastime of playing the fool in public. Alas! never again will that privilege be ours. But, never mind! Playing the fool in public would have been no fun had it been a life-long privilege. So here's to the good times we've had,—and the better times we are bound to enjoy as faithful members of '97 S and loyal sons of Yale!
